Negroes Seek Troops after Forced March

Selma Sheriff Walks Students To Rural Area

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Negroes sought protection of U.S. troops in their civil rights struggle in the wake of a long forced march by students who had angered Sheriff James G. Clark.

Still more right-to-vote demonstrations were promised today and some of the students said they would lie down on the sidewalk if Clark attempted to drive them away again.

Hundreds of aroused parents waiting to hear a renewed appeal for nonviolence from Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. voted Wednesday night to put President Johnson to put Selma under martial law.

King, returning to the city several hours after the sheriff had compelled 160 teenage demonstrators to walk and run three miles into the countryside, warned his followers once more that they "must not return violence for violence."

The 1964 Nobel Peace Prize winner told a cheering throng of students, including many who made the long march, that the problem of "brutality, meanness and terror" in Selma will remain unsolved until the federal government "is willing to do something" about it.

But he admonished young Negroes that they will gain nothing by yielding to any temptation to resort to violence themselves.

A short time later, at another church nearby, King warned an overflow crowd of adult Negroes that "violence creates more social problems than it solves."

King related in detail his conference with Johnson and other high government officials in Washington Tuesday and said the President had promised to seek new federal voter legislation.

The integration leader reminded the parents that they will have another change to register as voters Monday.

He urged Negroes to turn out "in numbers that will let the nation, the world, governor (George) Wallace and Sheriff Clark know that we do not intend to stop until we can register without any obstacles."

Near Collision Is Linked to Airline Crash

NEW YORK (AP) — A jet airliner reported a near collision moments before an Eastern Air Lines DC7B plane plunged into the Atlantic Ocean killing 84 persons, government investigators said today.

The Federal Aviation Agency said an official recording of radio transmissions Monday night, when the tragedy occurred, showed a Pan American World Airways jetliner reporting "a close miss here."

The transcript indicated that the doomed plane was at 3,700 feet altitude when last reported and the jet was at 3,500 feet.

After a steep banking turn, Eastern's Flight 663, a four-engine propeller plane, dove into the sea about eight miles off Jones Beach, within minutes of take off from Kennedy Airport. No one survived.

Federal Aviation Agency authorities released the transcripts while the Coast Guard continued to search the Atlantic for the bodies of the victims and the main wreckage of the plane.

Architect Hired For Jail Project

A resolution authorizing Ralph Crook, Lancaster architect, to draw plans for remodeling the Pickaway County Jail basement was approved yesterday afternoon by the Board of County Commissioners.

The proposed remodeling will provide space for the sheriff's offices which are now located in the courthouse.

The move has been designed to make it more convenient for the sheriff's department by housing all records in the same building. The commissioners explained that it also will provide much needed space in the Courthouse for other departmental offices.

A lack of space has existed in the Courthouse for a long time, the solons explained. Switching the sheriff's offices to the jail building would mean three additional rooms for other functions, they added.

CROOK'S fee was set at eight per cent of the total contract, or a $500 minimum. Commissioners Lloyd Melvin, Wayne Hines and Charles Morris approved the resolution.

The jail basement rooms under study are now used for storage. Sheriff Dwight Radcliff explained what is needed by his department in regard to the new offices.

Sheriff Radcliff, generally describing a tentative remodeling plan, said four rooms could be converted in the basement area.

The new facilities could include a sealed off communications room, a combined entrance area and records room, an office for the records clerk and the sheriff's office. Radcliff said the room allotted as his office could possibly be partitioned to provide a separate area for deputies. He said this would allow them space in performing routine duties such as completing and filing reports.

The present small jail office-radio room would be converted to a waiting room for visitors. It also could be utilized as quarters for booking prisoners. Crook inspected the basement area yesterday afternoon.

He plans to return in the next few days for a closer look in preparation for drawing plans.

The Lancaster man served as architect for the addition at Walnut Twp. School and for buildings at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

Johnson Outmaneuvers Congress on Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has outmaneuvered Congress to turn back challenges to his conduct of foreign relations and his orders to close 11 veterans hospitals and 20 farm research stations.

By trading off some time, the President got voice-vote passage by the Senate Wednesday of a $1.6 billion supplemental money bill carrying watered down anti-Nasser and anti-closing riders. The measure previously approved by the House, went to the White House.

The uproar caused by an original House vote to cut off the shipments of surplus foodstuffs to the United Arab Republic had died to the point where the matter wasn't even mentioned in the final debate. The flareup came after UAR President Gamal Abdel Nasser said, in effect, the United States could take its aid and "go to hell."

Johnson got authority to make the decision on whether additional shipments shall go to Egypt.

Instead of cutting off funds for the closing of Veterans Administration hospitals and agricultural research stations as the Senate had voted to do, both houses agreed to a compromise under which none would be closed until after May 1.

The Senate accepted this provision by a 62-9 vote, with nine Republicans voting against it. Presumably this moratorium would give Congress time to look into the matter and recommend against some of the prospective shutdowns. But Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., told his colleagues that Congress was getting no guarantee that any of the facilities would be kept open.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., who piloted the compromise through the Senate, tried to soothe his colleagues with the prediction that there will be some changes in the closing orders. Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., predicted that all on the list would have shut up shop by July 1.

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., said the Johnson administration has taken the position that "come hell or high water, they are going to close these hospitals."

The consensus among senators was that Dominick probably was right.

Woman Left Bound 3 Days by Burglars

HILLSBORO, Ohio (AP) — Bernice Brown, 74, was resting in Highland County Memorial Hospital today from her ordeal of lying for three days on her living room floor, bound hand and feet by burglars.

Miss Brown, who lives alone on a farm five miles from here, said two masked men forced their way into the house about midnight Saturday. A nephew, John Henry Brown, discovered her late Tuesday. She told Sheriff Walter Reiffitt the men ransacked the house, but left without taking anything. They left her helpless on the floor.

150 U.S.-Viet Planes Slash at Red Bases

U.S. Says Red Outrages Cause Latest Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States charged today that continuing "aggressions and outrages" by Communist forces in South Viet Nam compelled the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments to strike anew at Red infiltration bases in North Viet Nam.

A statement by the White House asserted "our desire to avoid spreading the conflict" in Viet Nam but added that because of "provocations" by North Viet Nam the United States and South Viet Nam felt compelled to strike back by air for the third time this week.

Reprisal raids, carried out by about four dozen American and Vietnamese aircraft, had been announced earlier in Saigon.

The air strike was more or less expected here. There also was some speculation in informed quarters that specially trained U.S. Army troops or Marines might be sent to South Viet Nam to increase security at American installations.

Although there was no public disclosure of any decisions reached by the President and his top military and diplomatic advisers, some officials said privately the conflict in South-

Widow Cries At Her Loss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Columbus widow of an Army man killed in a Viet Cong terror attack wept today as she thumbed through Viet Nam snapshots he had sent her only a month ago.

"We had a lot to look forward to... he was only 25..." said Mrs. Mary Belcher.

She sat in her apartment only hours after receiving a telegram informing her that her husband, Spec. 4 Thomas Belcher, had been killed in the Viet Cong's bombing attack of a hotel in Qui Nhon. He was the first victim of the attack identified by the Pentagon.

"He was due to come home and get out of the Army in May," Mrs. Belcher said. "He was drafted two years ago and went to Viet Nam in May last year." Before entering the Army Belcher worked in a parts department of an automobile agency here. He was born and reared in Chapmanville, W. Va., where he went to school.

Mrs. Belcher said she and her husband were married Dec. 31, 1963. She has been working for an industrial laundry firm.

Besides his widow, Belcher leaves eight brothers and three sisters. One brother, Lee, spoke bitterly of the war "that no one seems to be winning" adding: "No sir, it's not worth it. It's a crazy, stinking war like Korea and it's not worth one American life... and I've got six brothers who feel the same way. We were all in the service at one time or another and fought in World War II and Korea... it's not worth it."

Gen. Clark Calls For Viet Slaughter

NEW YORK (AP) — Retired Gen. Mark W. Clark says the United States should resort to quick retaliatory strikes against Communist North Viet Nam and "slaughter the hell out of them for a long time."

Clark, 68, a World War II hero and the last U.S. commander in the Korean action, offered his comments on the Viet Nam conflict Wednesday night in a speech to a veterans dinner.

"In Korea, our hands were tied behind our backs," said Clark. "We should have won with our great air and naval support. If we had won, we would not find ourselves in the position we are in tonight."

U.S. Civilians Calling All Shots in Viet War

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the strange new kind of war being fought in Viet Nam, detailed military shots are being called in Washington as never before in history.

This is because each military move against the Communists outside the borders of South Viet Nam is loaded with potential for bringing on a big-scale war.

In pre-atomic days, military commanders directed military operations once the fighting began. This was true in Korea, too, although a decision against carrying the war north of the Yalu into Red China was made by President Harry S. Truman.

The advent of the Kennedy administration brought to power a group of civilians, led by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who believed in the idea of controlled response to Communist threats and actions.

The aim was to keep a tight reign on military moves, to tailor the response to the threat, and to limit any clash to the lowest level possible.

The objective was to minimize the danger of accidental war, to prevent a situation from getting out of hand and escalating into general war — into a war that might lead ultimately to a dreaded nuclear exchange.

Thus, the command and control system was built up to an extent never before achieved — and the reins of that system led to the highest levels of the Pentagon and White House. Development of that system had started earlier, but was accelerated by McNamara.

One practical application of tightened civilian control over military operations was seen in the 1962 Cuban missile crisis.

During last summer's Gulf of Tonkin shooting incident and again last weekend when the Communists attacked a U.S. compound and airfield near Pleiku, the Joint Chiefs of Staff recommended a list of targets for retaliation and the method of attacking them. President Johnson, McNamara and the National Security Council accepted the basic recommendations of the chiefs.

After the civilian officials had given their assent, the orders were passed down through the chain of command — through the U.S. commander in the Pacific, based at Honolulu, then to the commander of the Navy's 7th Fleet and U.S. military chiefs in Viet Nam.

Giant Storm Hits Plains; Ohio Temperatures Drop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A giant storm roamed over the western United States today, dumping heavy snow on Colorado and Arizona while rain and snow struck much of the eastern half of the country.

Livestock warnings were in effect for western Nebraska and Kansas. Cold weather and snow harassed New England. Thunderstorms struck from Texas to the Carolinas.

A 6-inch snow fell Wednesday on Colorado's parched eastern plains, a dryland winter wheat area in the grip of a three-year drought. It was the first major precipitation of the winter on the eastern prairies and raised hopes for wheat farmers.

More than 6 inches of snow fell in Denver. Pueblo in southern Colorado had more than 8 inches and several other cities reported 6-inch accumulations.

A 4-inch blanket of snow in Tucson, Ariz., Wednesday was the third heaviest snowfall in history for the winter resort.

Two to four inches of snow fell over southern Wyoming.

The Hastings-Grand Island area in central Nebraska had 12 to 16 inches of snow on the ground — a blessing for winter wheat.

Snow fell in the higher elevations of northern New Mexico and thunderstorms pounded the eastern section of the state while cold moved in from the West. Two schools were closed on the outskirts of Albuquerque. Twenty-six inches of snow was on the ground at Sandia Crest east of Albuquerque.

A treacherous sleet storm closed 200 schools and many business establishments in Minnesota.

At least 36 persons were injured.

Two others died previously in the rioting that began more than two weeks ago when the central government proclaimed Hindi as India's official language. Three persons committed suicide in protest.

At least 3,000 persons have been arrested.

General cloudiness was to thicken today, bringing rain to southern sections this afternoon and to the entire state tonight. Highs in the 40s were forecast for today. The weather tonight and Friday will be warmer and rainy.

Retaliation Strikes Hit Barracks Areas

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — About 150 U.S. and South Vietnamese warplanes ripped targets in North Viet Nam with bombs and rockets today in reprisal for the latest in a series of Viet Cong attacks.

The Red attacks were capped Wednesday night by the blasting of a U.S. enlisted men's barracks at Qui Nhon, in which 22 Americans are believed to have been killed.

More than 100 carrier-based planes of the U.S. 7th Fleet attacked from the South China Sea in this third and heaviest reprisal strike since Sunday. They hit at Chang Hoa and Chap Le.

Three of the Navy planes went down, but apparently not directly from enemy fire. Two fell in the sea and one crashed landed at the Da Nang base. Two of the pilots were rescued.

Twenty-eight Vietnamese fighter-bombers and an escort of 20 U.S. Air Force F100 jet fighters struck across the 17th parallel at points near the border.

Heavy columns of smoke streamed up from the target areas.

All the land-based craft returned safely. There were believed to have been no casualties aboard them.

Jets from the carriers Hancock, Ranger and Coal Sea roared in on barracks areas at Chan Hoa, about four miles northwest of Dong Hoi, a coastal point struck by an earlier Navy retaliatory bomb and rocket attack Sunday.

This area is about 70 miles north of the 17th parallel boundary separating North and South Viet Nam.

The Defense Department spokesman said an early assessment was that this raid was "highly successful."

The returning pilots reported heavy fires in one area and moderate fires in two other areas. Communist anti-aircraft fire ranged from heavy to light and moderate, the spokesman said.

This happened at 1 a.m. EST. Two hours later, U.S. and South Vietnamese air force planes struck at another area called Chap Le, just above the 17th parallel.

This, too, was described as a barracks area, and is near a center of Communist infiltration preparations called Vinh Linh. Results there were successful, the spokesman said, stressing that these were preliminary reports.

The barracks areas were described as containing training, supply, maintenance, and other facilities, in addition to troop housing.

A Crusader jet and pilot were unaccounted for.

A Skyraider dive bomber went down in the sea, but its pilot was picked up by U.S. rescue planes.

A Skyhawk bomber from the Coral Sea flamed out over the ocean while returning from the strike. The pilot was picked up, and was said to be in good condition at the U.S. South Vietnamese base at Da Nang.

The fourth plane lost was another Skyhawk whose landing gear collapsed while it was attempting to come in at Da Nang. This plane was from the Ranger. The Skyhawk crashed, the spokesman said, but the pilot escaped.

Sad Day for Girls; Ringo Starr Is Wed

LONDON (AP) — Ringo Starr, the Beatles' drummer, married 18-year-old Maureen Cox today. Ringo is 24.

Ringo and Maureen were married at 8:15 a.m. After the ceremony they left London for a short honeymoon at an undisclosed place.

Rescuers Sweat and Cry In Rubble of GI Hotel

QUI NHON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Sweating and crying, American rescue workers pulled two American soldiers alive today from the rubble of a U.S. enlisted men's hotel destroyed by Viet Cong terrorists.

One of the young American survivors was dragged out of a tunnel dug through the debris after a Korean doctor amputated his leg to free him.

The doctor, a member of a Korean medical team stationed at Qui Nhon, crawled into the tunnel smashed into the bricks by U.S. Army engineers and rescue workers.

Faint cries from the trapped man were heard at 2:30 a. m., about six hours after Viet Cong bombs crumpled the four-story concrete building. The soldier was in the rubble for 18 hours before he was pulled out.

By late today, the toll from the blast was:

- One American killed in the hotel when a bomb went off in the hotel bar. Another died later in the hospital. Sixteen Americans were wounded but survived and got out. Four escaped injury, and got out. Twenty-two others, including two believed to be still alive, were buried under the mountain of debris.

The blast also buried 12 Vietnamese house servants working in the hotel. The mangled leg of one could be seen protruding from the rubble.

A family of seven Vietnamese living in a nearby house were all killed.

All the Americans in the hotel were Army enlisted men serving with 140th Maintenance Detachment except for the American killed in the bar. He was a Special Forces man.

Soon after the first cries for help, the cries of three other men in the rubble were heard. One of them was pulled out, leaving two others trapped late today.

One of the heroes of the bloody night killed two of the Viet Cong attackers and survived himself.

Spec. 5 Robert K. Marshall was on the second floor of the building when the attack began. Viet Cong squads poured machine-gun fire into the building.

Marshall rushed onto the balcony of the building with his carbine and emptied his magazine at two terrorists firing from a street across the way. After killing both, he rushed back into his room for more ammunition, but the explosion went off at that moment. Marshall was evacuated to Saigon.

Marshall saved himself by diving under his bed when the building collapsed.

Rescue workers at the scene were working to the point of exhaustion. One who played a key role in freeing the first trapped American was Spec. John Huske, a surgical rescue man from Roman, Mont. He was one of the first men at the scene and was still there late this afternoon.

Huske built the tunnel to the trapped man, then stayed and comforted him. The tunnel was 2 feet wide and 10 feet long.

U.S. Says Red

east Asia seemed to be entering a much more serious phase.

The counterattacks at the Communists presumably were ordered as a result of decisions made by President Johnson at a National Security Council meeting Wednesday afternoon. There was no announcement following that two-hour session and officials said privately that decisions would be made known only through action.

The White House statement this morning dealt with the new air assault as a limited reprisal action rather than as part of a developing air offensive against North Viet Nam. The reference to avoidance of spreading the war was evidently designed to indicate to the Communist side that the United States is still prepared to confine the struggle if the Communist strategy makes that possible.

The statement also left no doubt, however, that the unwillingness often displayed here in the past to hit North Viet Nam almost regardless of what happened in the South has now given way; whatever protection of privileged sanctuary the North had enjoyed until last weekend seemed to be disappearing fast.

The U.S.-Vietnam strike was, however, once more directed against positions described in the White House statement as "infiltration bases."

As to the provocations charged against the Communists, the statement said that in recent days "large numbers of South Vietnamese and United States personnel have been killed in an increased number of Viet Cong ambushes and attacks."

Cited among costly Communist blows was the terrorist bombing Wednesday at the town of Qui Nhon which took a heavy toll of lives in the destruction of an enlisted men's hotel. The statement also said the Reds have overrun a district town in Thon Long province inflicting Vietnamese and American casualties. Attacks on railroads and a wave of assassinations of South Vietnamese officials were also charged against the Communists.

Stock Mart Prices Mixed

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was mixed, with some blue chips weakening early this afternoon. Trading was active.

After an irregular start, the list moved a little higher on balance, some averages showing slight gains in early trading. Brokers ascribed the strength to a technical recovery as traders picked up stock at low levels following Wednesday's plunge on the Viet Nam news.

Around mid-session, however, some key stocks began to slide. Standard Oil (New Jersey) fell about 2 points, Anaconda more than a point.

Steels edged ahead in early trading despite the doubt prevailing about the election in the United Steelworkers Union. Some of these gains were shaded later.

The news of bombing attacks against Communist North Viet Nam added to the nervous atmosphere behind the market and continued to aid aerospace defense issues which rose again, posting moderate gains.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .1 at 333.9 with industrials off .2, rails off .1 and utilities up .6.

State Patrolman Given Citation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Highway Patrol announced today that the superintendent's citation of merit has been awarded Thomas L. Coon.

Coon was cited for "his heroic action in aiding Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson in subduing a deranged attacker last November," the patrol announced.

Sheriff Thompson had commended Coon for his prompt help which saved him from possible serious or fatal injuries. He had been attacked with an iron bar by a mentally deranged man who earlier had barricaded himself in his home.

News Briefs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Penitentiary is "the most congested prison in the nation," says Corrections Chief Maury C. Koblenz.

He made the comment to state legislators Wednesday after 37 of them toured the grim, century-old institution here.

"Something's got to be done," said Rep. Harry V. Jump, R-Huron, House majority whip, after the tour.

A $290 million state bond issue coming up before voters May 4 would include funds to tear down the old prison and replace it with two modern institutions.

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Charles Landers, 102, died today at her home here. She was the widow of Lancaster's first full time fire chief.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Fire today destroyed a century-old Victorian brick mansion on East Town Street, housing the national headquarters of Kappa Kappa Gamma Fraternity, a women's organization. More than 100 firemen were called by two alarms battled the blaze.

Firemen said the loss would be "well above" $25,000.

The converted mansion, restored only a few years ago, had more than 25 rooms and had been headquarters for 91 Kappa Kappa Gamma chapters since 1952. The organization is incorporated as a fraternity, but has more than 70,000 female sorority members on college campuses, including Ohio State University.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Judiciary subcommittee has approved a bill to require that congressional districts be compact and nearly equal in population.

The bill is designed to go into effect for the 1966 congressional election and would use the 1960 census to determine a district's population. The measure says no district in a state can have a population that varies more than 12.5 per cent from the state's average.

The Supreme Court ruled last year that both house of state legislatures must be based on population.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of applications for the new domestic Peace Corps is running ahead of that for the original Peace Corps, says Sargent Shriver, Peace Corps director and head of President Johnson's antipoverty campaign.

Shriver, speaking Wednesday to the annual Conference of the Citizens Crusade Against Poverty, said that in a little more than one month the Volunteers in Service to America — Vista — the domestic Peace Corps, already had 8,500 applications.

The Peace Corps got 6,000 applications in the first month after it was created by the late President John F. Kennedy, but after that it fell off, Shriver said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Completion of the interstate highway system is nearing the halfway point with 19,019 of its 41,000 miles finished.

An announcement Wednesday by the Commerce Department said some 1,519 miles were opened during the last three months of 1964. Another 5,200 miles are under construction. Last year 2,505 miles were completed.

'New Look' Advocated at Courthouse

Serious consideration is being directed toward a project to improve the appearance of much traveled stairways in the County Courthouse.

Taking a special interest in the beautification program is Commissioner Charles E. Morris Jr. He said the improvement could be completed at a minimum cost.

The commissioner referred specifically to 87 copper or bronze etched facings that are a part of the stairway bannisters. He said they currently are so dull and blemished Courthouse visitors hardly notice them.

The renovation, Morris said, could include painting iron portions of the stairways. The metal facings could be removed, buffed and polished — then installed again.

A RAILING along the stairways could also stand a polish job, the solon added. This, along with painting the iron portions and giving the facings a new look would make the entire area more appealing, he said.

Morris asserted that frequent steps should be taken to maintain the appearance of the Courthouse and keep it in an attractive condition for the many persons who visit there each day.

He said he plans to discuss the matter further with Commissioners Lloyd Melvin and Wayne Hines when the lawmakers meet on Monday.

Middletown Awarded Sewage Project Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Health Education and Welfare Department has awarded a $483,660 grant to Middletown, Ohio, to construct a sanitary sewage project.

The money will be used to provide intercepting sewers to connect the system in East Middletown to the existing Middletown system, Reps. Rodney M. Love, D-Ohio, said in announcing the grant.

Columbus Man Fined $30 Following 2-Car Accident

Al Klein, 67, of Columbus, involved in a two-car accident at 11:50 a. m. yesterday west of Williamsport, was fined $30 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court.

Judge Sterling M. Lamb suspended $15 of the fine. Klein was cited for failure to maintain an assured cleared distance ahead. The charge alleged his vehicle struck a car driven by Thomas W. Duvall 27, Williamsport, in the rear.

Although Klein complained of chest pains, he refused to go to the hospital, according to Homer Adams, Pickaway County deputy sheriff.

Other motorists appearing on the completed court docket included two drivers cited for overloaded trucks. Joseph Ferneau, 28, Hillsboro, and Ralph Imler Sr., 58, Chillicothe, each was fined $25 and costs.

Imler was also fined $25 and costs for failure to have a log book as required by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Charles Butler, 27, Chillicothe, was fined $50 and costs for driving a car with a defective emergency brake.

Information Of Interest To Veterans

(Veterans and their dependents who may have any questions concerning any benefits from the Veterans Administration should bring their questions to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. His office is located in the basement of the County Court House).

There is an old saying "What you don't now can't hurt you." However, said James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer, it is not always true that what you don't know can't hurt you especially when it applies to a great many veterans that may not know they are eligible to get GI Insurance under the new insurance program effective May 1, 1965.

Not knowing could keep veterans from taking advantage of the opportunity. The veterans that the VA is concerned about, Shea said, are those who have disabilities rated service-connected, but don't get disability compensation checks from the VA, so the agency and the veterans are out of touch. Veterans who get compensation checks can be notified of their eligibility for the new insurance, through the mails, but the VA has no way to trace these service-connected veterans, whose disabilities are so slight that they do not rate monthly compensation payments.

All veterans, Shea said, who have old disability ratings are entitled to make application for insurance under the new insurance program. If you are one of these veterans, the Service Officer continued, contact me in my office in the basement of the courthouse, for very important information on the insurance program. In fact, Shea concluded, all veterans interested in securing insurance should contact me, and we can determine if they are eligible.

School Groups Give Views For Tax Hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — School groups backing a proposed hike in the state sales tax had their say Wednesday night at a jam-packed legislative committee hearing.

They testified before the House Education Committee on the initiated bill which would increase the tax from three to four per cent to provide an additional $116 million annually for schools.

More than 200 persons crowded into the hearing room and a large number was turned away, indicating keen public reaction to the proposal.

Rep. B. A. Broughtin, R-Geauga, committee chairman, emphasized at the start that the initial session was to receive the bill formally and to hear testimony from proponents.

Opposition testimony will be heard at subsequent meetings, expected to be alternated every two weeks with hearings on another hot school measure, the so-called "fair bus bill."

The Ohio Council for Education, made up of 10 statewide educational groups, presented the sales tax bill to the Legislature along with more than 131,000 signatures.

Robert Lucas, president of the council, was the leadoff witness at Wednesday night's hearing. Lucas described the council's Program for Educational Progress, referred to as the "Pep" program, which is provided for in the bill.

He said it is designed to bring "better education to every boy and girl in Ohio" and "to eliminate the great inequalities in Ohio education that exist today."

Robert Dowling, president of the Ohio Education Association, said his organization believes that the improvement of Ohio schools is a state responsibility.

The Education Committee, in other business, voted 22-0 to recommend passage of a bill permitting local school districts to utilize so-called trimester or four quarter operation plans to alleviate classroom crowding.

Under either system, vacations of students would be rotated the year round. Rep. Walter Powell, R-Butler, author of the bill, emphasized it is permissive in nature and would add no expense to the school foundation program.

Farmer, 40, Accused in Fatal Beating

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Belmont County authorities planned to resume questioning today of a 40-year-old farmer who they say has admitted killing his wife and then shedding his bloody clothes to run naked from scene.

The farmer was identified as Carl Gomb of Alledonia, a small town about 14 miles south of here.

The Belmont County sheriff's office said Gomb was picked up Wednesday night about two miles from his farm home.

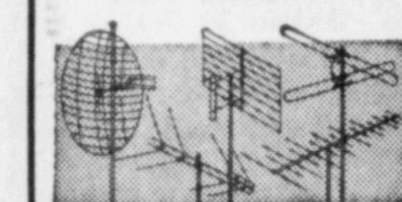

Inside Gomb's barn, in a horse stall, deputies found the beaten body of his wife, Lydia, in her 60s. Deputies said the body appeared to have been placed in the stall, her arms folded across her chest.

Gomb was naked when arrested. Sheriff George E. Neff said Gomb's clothing, bloodied, was found scattered between the point of pickup and Gomb's farm.

Deputy Sheriff Don Stukeby said Gomb had admitted killing his wife Wednesday. No motive was given and Gomb has not been charged.

U.S.-Viet Air ...

At Qui Nhon, rescuers pulled out two American soldiers alive from the debris of the concrete enlisted men's quarters shattered by the Viet Cong explosion Wednesday night.

Twenty-two others, including two believed still alive, were buried under the mountain of rubble. Two others are dead.

Sixteen Americans who got out of the blasted building were wounded. Four others escaped without injury.

Twenty-one Vietnamese also were believed killed, including two of the terrorists.

America's dead in Viet Nam combat totaled 270. Four U.S. Army advisers also were missing after a Viet Cong band attacked a town 80 miles north of Saigon.

The first Qui Nhon victim identified by the Pentagon was Pvt. Tommy J. Belcher, whose wife Mary lives in Columbus, Ohio.

A 10-man Viet Cong terror team raked the four-story concrete building with machine-gun fire at 8:10 p.m. Then one Communist was believed to have thrown a grenade into the lobby, rushed in after it and deposited 100 pounds of explosives in a satchel. Two other charges were placed around the building.

When they went off, the hotel collapsed into a 30-foot pile of rubble. Two of the Viet Cong and seven members of a Vietnamese family near the hotel died in the blast.

Viet Cong infiltrators today commandeered a fleet of 50 junks and sailed toward the Qui Nhon city wharfs 300 yards from the wrecked American billet. Intense fire from armed helicopters finally drove them off. Other helicopters blasted Viet Cong positions in swamps near the town.

Qui Nhon is a coastal supply base and air center for helicopters and fighter-bomber units. Much of the equipment comes in by small vessels from Saigon.

The Viet Cong also attacked a national police station and a power station at Qui Nhon and carried out diversionary strikes against an outpost and an air strip.

The evacuation of American dependents continued from Saigon, but U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor said he had no plans to speed up the airlifts because of the Qui Nhon bombing.

"This is not a crisis. It is just a continuation of Viet Cong terror tactics," Taylor said at Saigon airport, where he had gone with Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, to see off a group of 150 women and children.

Under orders from President Johnson, the nearly 2,000 American dependents are being evacuated — military dependents to the United States and civilian dependents in many cases to nearby Thailand or Hong Kong.

The Defense Department in Washington released the first photographs of the U.S. and South Vietnamese air strikes against North Viet Nam.

Pictures taken by reconnaissance aircraft showed smoke rising from vehicles, shelters, buildings and other installations in the village of Vinh Linh. A few running figures could be seen near one burning vehicle.

As the Communist offensive mounted, there were these developments on other fronts:
About 600 South Vietnamese soldiers were believed wiped out in the Binh Dinh Mountains, not far from Wui Nhon, in one of the worst defeats of the war.

The Vietnamese claimed 60 Communists were killed in fighting south of Saigon.

Communists were engaged in battle only nine miles from Da Nang, the key air base now protected from enemy air attack by a U.S. Marine battery of Hawk antiaircraft missiles which arrived from the United States this week. So far the Communists have made no air attacks on South Viet Nam.

Another battle east of Saigon, where paratroopers staved off nine Communist assaults, had eased today.

Wounded U.S. GI Says: 'God, It Rained Metal!'

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Ill. (AP) — The private from New York lay in a hospital bed and summed up the Communist attack on Pleiku: "God, it rained metal."

"I was asleep in my hooch (hut) when the mortar barrage started," said Pfc. David C. Crouse of Altamont, N.Y. "The guy in the bunk next to me didn't know what hit him."

Crouse was one of 16 wounded soldiers from South Viet Nam flown to this air base near Belleville Wednesday night. They'll continue their journey today, bound for military hospitals near their homes.

Another of the 16 was 1st Lt. Joe Rigby, 25, a Ranger-paratrooper from Lockney, Tex. He also was wounded when the Communists suddenly attacked the American base at Pleiku Sunday night.

"I saw the Viet Cong who shot me," said Rigby. "I was running and I saw him open up with an American-made 30-caliber machine gun. I felt the pain. It hit me right here."

Rigby pointed to his right thigh and charted the direction the slug took through his leg.

"The V. C. (Viet Cong) know where our hooches are, and know where to go. I caught this shrapnel in my leg at Pleiku," said Spec. 4 Harold J. Feldmann of Oxford, Mich.

"The motor hit outside our hut," said Spec. 4 Neal J. Phillips of Fairview Park, Ohio. "The blast blew the screens in and the wire splintered. Look at me. The shrapnel hurt but look what the screen did to me. My buddy lost an eye."

Phillips' arms and chest were covered with tiny puncture wounds. The military policeman said the screen wire splinters were removed one by one.

Rigby was wounded southeast of Pleiku.

demand rather than on just the catching up after last fall's auto strike.

The problems and uncertainties aside, the current statistics are mostly on the side of optimism.

The big spurt of industrial production in December apparently carried over into January, and in February is slowed only in those industries and sections hit by the Atlantic and Gulf coast shipping strike.

Retail sales are strong, with all signs that consumers are in a spending mood and have plenty of income and savings to back it.

On a seasonal basis employment in January was better than normal.

Illness can be calamitous. There never is a right time to be sick. Illness is always inconvenient and unwelcome, and can often be disrupting, especially when it causes financial difficulty and emotional worries.

In essence, rehabilitation means restoring physical and emotional well-being. It begins with the very first pill and the very first word of reassurance. The effectiveness of any treatment—from a heating pad to an antibiotic—is increased when accompanied by psychological support.

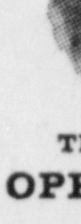

Rehabilitation is the specialty of every field of medicine. It is practiced by every physician. It encompasses every effort that is made to help the patient toward complete physical and emotional recovery from all illness.

William Pangburn, Teays Valley Cadet Band director, has outlined procedures to be followed concerning scrap paper, metal and rag drives.

If weather permits Friday and Saturday, a truck will be at the Ashville Elementary School parking lot. Scrap paper and magazines may be loaded at this time.

If adequate help is available, bandmen will visit most persons in the community. It will be financially impossible to pick up paper house-to-house in the entire community.

Pangburn said the cost of running a truck over a large territory for two days in order to collect a load of material which will sell for $25 prevents a complete canvass. Magazines will still be accepted, although one pulp plant has refused to accept them.

Pangburn urged all persons who have scrap paper to securely bundle paper and magazines separately and place them in the truck at the Elementary School on announced collection days. He said the tremendous public support of this project is gratifying, although small profit margins discourage house-to-house pickup.

The same procedure will probably be true for Walnut and Scioto Twp. Band Booster groups if they so decide to continue scrap drives, the director said.

Scrap metal will be collected as soon as possible.

There will be a rag drive at all three Teays Valley Elementary Schools in early spring. Large paper sacks which can be filled with rags or clothing, regardless of condition, will be sent home with students. Each school will be assigned two specific days when a truck will be located at the school. All filled "rag bags" can be brought in and thrown on the truck. Once again, due to the small margin of profit; it will be impossible to have an individual house collection.

Students can bring certain size filled sacks to school on the bus by holding them on their laps. Large ones will have to be brought by private car.

The Ashville-Harrison, Scioto Twp. and Walnut Twp. Band Boosters express thanks to all who have supported these projects in order to help "Send the Cadet Band to the '65 World's Fair."

The recent Ashville-Harrison Band Booster smorgasbord held at the Teays Valley High School can be termed a success although the organization members planned on serving approximately 200 they ended up serving more than 400.

Fortunately the food held out thanks to cooperation of local businessmen. Regrets were extended to persons required to stand in line.

Even though 25 Booster members and nearly that number of students were working in the kitchen, dining room and on the serving line there still was a need of help in order to operate two serving lines.

Under the leadership of co-chairwomen Mrs. John Sabine, Mrs. Gene Tosca, Mrs. Harry Rife Jr. and Mrs. Chet Peters, the event was highly successful. The menu included a meat course of turkey and ham, escalloped corn, chicken and noodles, applesauce, deviled eggs, fruit salads, molded salads, tossed salads, relish dishes, angel food cake, pies and ice cream and coffee and milk. The smorgasbord was garnished with strains of recorded German music.

Reds Openly Operate Toll Booths On Supply Route Out of Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong troops, virtually unhindered by South Vietnamese government operations, have placed a stranglehold on the only overland route from Saigon to the border of Communist North Viet Nam.

There is evidence that corrupt local officials, acting in collusion with large and aggressive made the situation even worse.

Viet Cong toll booths on arterial Route 1, only 507 miles east of Saigon, have been operating openly and freely since November, apparently with no fear of major government interference.

These toll booths are believed to have financed the Communist offensive at Binh Gia in December. That operation cost government forces 500 casualties, including a score of Americans, and netted the Viet Cong quantities of arms and equipment.

The locations of the main toll booths in the jungles of Long Khanh Province are well known. Four toll and check points operate daily between road markers 1774 and 1780 — 56 air miles east of Saigon. A fairly wide trail leads four miles south from the main road at this point to a Viet Cong hamlet called Tra Cut, center of enemy road operations in the area.

An area just south of Tra Cut is a key Viet Cong rest and training camp. The force that fought the Binh Gia campaign is believed to be refitting there now.

Vietnamese travelers who managed to get through the area reported that more than 20 vehicles, including trucks, have been hijacked and taken to Tra Cut.

There old tires are cut up into sandals for the guerrillas — new tires are too thick. Engines are converted for use in jungle arms factories and to generate electric power. Instruments taken from cars are used for making time bombs.

Nearly all cars, buses and trucks are stopped at the toll points and charged $2 to $10, depending on the weight of the vehicle, its cargo and so on. Since November, an estimated $40,000 has been collected.

Passengers are checked closely. During the recent holiday season, uniformed soldiers without weapons were allowed through the checkpoint but were stripped of their uniforms. Viet Cong troops in the area all wear government uniforms.

At other times, government officials and soldiers travel at their peril.

There have been some government raids on the area, but Viet Cong operations continue unchecked.

One reason is that the area is on the border between the zones of its jurisdiction. The zone also is close to the border between Long Khanh and Binh Tuy provinces, and province chiefs have the same jurisdictional problem.

Many local observers, Vietnamese and American, feel graft is a factor in preventing government operations.

Wood cutting is the major occupation in Long Khanh Province. Woodcutters work freely throughout the area, with no interference from the Viet Cong.

There is evidence that the woodmen have paid thousands of dollars to local government authorities and that the authorities have agreed not to tackle the Viet Cong too briskly. The Viet Cong in exchange let the woodcutters work.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Close Shave for Collegian

DEAR ABBY: Mona and I are college seniors and have been dating steadily since the beginning of this term. I like her a lot and could be serious about her. Last Saturday night we went to a university-sponsoring party. When Mona saw me in my swimming trunks she looked disgusted. I am no Adonis, but I'm no bag of bones either. Mona suggested leaving early and while we were driving home she said, "You embarrassed me to death. Why didn't you tell me you were hirsute?" I asked her what that meant and she said, "Anyone having excess hair on his body is hirsute. Why don't you shave the hair off your back and shoulders?" I asked sarcastically, "How about the hair on my chest?" She said, "Oh, that's all right. It's accepted. The other isn't." Is her request whacky, or is she right, Abby: A man doesn't know much about these things.

TIM
DEAR TIM: If Mona doesn't want you hair and all, bow out and figure your brush with her was a close shave.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 17, a senior in high school and a compulsive letter-writer. Last year she wrote to a freshman boy at the state university every day without fail. She'd be writing him at 6:30 in the morning, and also past midnight she sat writing page after page after page. (She'd get maybe a one-page letter from him—every other week. Once I read some of the stuff she wrote (trying to get a clue as to how serious it was) and it was the biggest bunch of nothing I ever read. She is just a fair student, but if she spent half the time on her school work that she spends on those letters she would be much better. She writes a fellow in the Navy she doesn't even know. She got his address from a girl friend. Every lunch hour she spends a dime calling home to see if she got any mail. What on earth is wrong with the girl? You may print your answer. She never reads your column and gets mad if I suggest it.

TEXAN

DEAR TEXAN: Apparently your daughter needs the outlet that letter-writing offers her. But I think she's overdoing it. Insist that she spend more time on her studies, and write letters in her "spare" time.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that is keeping me awake nights. My husband grinds his teeth in his sleep. Is there anything I can do to cure him of it? When I hear him grinding his teeth, I pat him gently on the jaw. He awakes for a few moments and stops, but the minute he falls back to sleep again he continues to grind his teeth just like before. I don't suppose this will ruin our marriage, but I wish I knew how to help him.

SAN MATEO
DEAR SAN MATEO: Your marriage may survive all that teeth grinding, but your husband's teeth may not. Urge him to see his dentist before he grinds himself into a diet of crackers and milk.

CONFIDENTIAL TO STEVE:
The dictionary is the only place where success comes before work.

28 Counties In SE Ohio Get Summons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes has called the leaders of 28 counties in southeast Ohio to a meeting here next Tuesday to organize the state's plans to participate in the federal Appalachia program.

Rhodes said Wednesday he wants Ohio to be ready for action "particularly on highway projects." He added:

"The better we can organize, the better we can move when the federal allocations are made."

Rhodes made his comments as he met with members of the Ohio Valley Regional Development Council.

Rhodes said two major highways plans are under study. The governor says he favors the Ohio-proposed idea of a super-highway called "The Appalachian Way." It would be a four-lane, developmental highway linking Bridgeport and Cincinnati on the opposite ends of Ohio's Appalachia. No estimate has been made public of the cost of the Appalachian Way.

The alternate highway proposal calls for improvement of U.S. 23 between Portsmouth and the Ross - Pickaway county line and the improvement of U.S. 50 between Cincinnati and Parkersburg, W.Va.

Another Tag For Old BIS Is in Offing

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—Another name change is scheduled for the old Lancaster Boys Industrial School.

The name was changed recently to Fairfield School for Boys. But because of a conflict in mail delivery and telephone calls being confused with Fairfield County schools, the name must be changed again.

Harold T. Cowell, school superintendent, said today he has asked employees to submit names for the school. He said he could give no indication as to what the new name would be or how soon the school would be renamed.

In Columbus, Ohio Youth Commission Director Wayne Fogle said he expected a new name to be selected soon. He said people in Lancaster are canvassing the area for suggestions for a new name.

Fogle could not say when the school would be renamed.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is a short story which could be called "An Afternoon at George E. Reedy's Place" or better, maybe, "An Afternoon at Lyndon B. Johnson's Place."

Reedy is President Johnson's press secretary with his office in one of the White House wings. On the right, going in, is the press room, full of reporters' desks and telephones.

Straight ahead, going in, is a huge room, a lobby, with leather chairs and sofas and big oval table where reporters who don't regularly cover the White House dump their hats and overcoats.

To the left, through a little hallway, is Reedy's place. This towering man with thick, horn-rimmed glasses, and gray hair so thick and high it looks bouffant, likes pipes, music and fishing. He's a slow talker.

He briefs the press for Johnson except on those days when the President holds an open news conference, which isn't often. So these meetings with Reedy for most reporters most of the time are their only link with Johnson.

There are exceptions. Johnson frequently calls in certain news men and talks to them for background which means they can say what he said so long as they don't say he said it.

The lobby Wednesday was jammed with reporters waiting for the word from Reedy because Wednesday was an unusual day, and they were very serious.

Johnson had called his National Security Council into emergency session because earlier the Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam had really cut some capers.

Over the weekend, after they had attacked an American airbase, Johnson ordered a bomber raid on North Viet Nam in retaliation. This was truly tit-for-tat although the White House explained it more stiffly: "The response was appropriate and fitting."

Then in a clear effort to test the American will to go on helping the South Vietnamese resist the Reds, the guerrillas made blazing attacks Wednesday throughout Viet Nam, even blowing up an American billet.

So the reporters in the lobby had only one question on their minds: What would Johnson and the National Security Council do now to meet this new test?

Reedy called in the newsmen at 4 p.m. but it was a big bust. He would only say what everyone knew: That the situation in Viet Nam was "receiving the closest attention."

The reporters pelted Reedy with questions to try to loosen him up but he wouldn't budge and nobody was mad at him. He couldn't say more than Johnson wanted him to say.

At last, with a brief "thank you," the reporters burst out of Reedy's office and into the lobby on their way to phones or their coats. And at that very instant Johnson burst out of another door and strode across the lobby.

At top speed he went out the door opening on the White House grounds. The reporters forgot their phones and their coats and went after him.

Johnson's timing was amazing. He had emerged at the best possible moment to get the most attention from the most reporters, in fact, all the reporters, although there is no evidence to support this kind of speculation here.

That Reedy's office is bugged — meaning it is equipped with a listening device that enables Johnson to sit in his office and hear what goes in Reedy's briefings. The White House has disclaimed any such bugging.

Johnson walked fast up one White House walk and fast back down another, all of it taking no more than five minutes, with perhaps a hundred newsmen trotting around and behind him. He led them like the Pied Piper and then disappeared indoors again.

The newsmen got nothing from him, either. He said no more than Reedy. But when they got back to their phones they reported he had walked around the White House yard in a "relaxed fashion."

And maybe that was his sole reason for what he did: To give the impression to the country, the Russians, the Red Chinese and the Vietnamese guerrillas that he was taking everything in stride, relaxed.

If this was the reason, he chose a very dramatic way to show the situation was undramatic.

Views on Television — Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — This is a frantic and critical time when a comparative handful of men — network executives and advertising agency men — are deciding what television programs we will watch next season.

Along with these major moves, it would be pleasant if the planners considered some small changes which would enhance the pleasure of viewers.

For instance, this year most programs with dramatic meat on their bones are relegated to late evening hours on the schedules. Eleven p.m. may not be a late bedtime for a TV or advertising executive, but it is to early risers. One most popular complaint received in letters to this column is that "all the programs I like best to watch come on at 10 p.m., and that's just too late for me."

Certainly "The Danny Kaye Show" would be a welcome addition to the early evening because Danny is a great entertainer of children. "The Defenders" had large audiences when it was in an earlier time period and there seems no real reason why the interesting and action-packed "Fugitive" could not be seen earlier.

It would be nice if stern restraints were placed upon enthusiastic news departments so that they would interrupt programs with "news bulletins" only if they really are important. And it would be interesting to see a news bulletin that was adjudged important enough to break into a commercial instead of the critical moment of a drama.

Recommended tonight: "The Defenders," CBS, 10-11 (Eastern Standard Time) — Brandon de Wilde co-stars as a conscientious objector who wants to be excluded from the military draft.

For half a century, Argentine leaders have vainly exhorted their young countrymen to go south. With 28 per cent of the national territory, Patagonia holds only a half-million persons, 2-5 per cent of Argentina's population.

CHAPLIN'S DAUGHTER IN FIRST STARRING ROLE—Geraldine Chaplin, daughter of Charlie Chaplin, portrays the role of a Russian wife in the film, "Dr. Zhivago," being made in Madrid, Spain. She is shown in a scene with Egyptian actor Omar Sharif. It is Miss Chaplin's first starring role.

Why Does Only Nebraska Have Unicameral Plan?

EDITOR'S NOTE — Only Nebraska, of the 50 states, has a one-house legislature, a system that has attracted more attention because of a Supreme Court ruling ordering reapportionment of state legislatures. The following second of two articles explores the question of why this setup has not caught on elsewhere in the United States.

By ODELL HANSON

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska 28 years ago became the first state in 100 years to vest its lawmaking functions in a unicameral or one-house legislature.

Until the U.S. Supreme Court last year espoused the "one-man, one-vote" doctrine, it appeared another century might elapse before any other state followed Nebraska's lead.

Nebraskans who haven't been too happy at the implication they were harboring a freak have taken pleasure at new found interest from states wondering if one house wouldn't do as well as two if both must be apportioned solely on the basis of population.

Nebraskans familiar with both one-house and two-house lawmaking say the advantages of the Nebraska-type legislature over the conventional bicameral legislature include these:

—Lower costs, as a result of fewer legislators on the payroll.

—Avoidance of duplicated effort, with bills going through only one house, instead of two.

—Clear-cut, simplified and fully exposed lawmaking steps, so that a citizen at all times can know precisely the status of any piece of legislation.

—Lawmakers are held more fully responsible for their actions, with record votes mandatory on any issue on the motion of any one senator.

—Legislation which might meet with majority favor cannot be sidetracked or pigeonholed by a small minority.

—The smaller size of the body, and the larger legislative districts from which each senator is elected, gives voters a better choice and results in a generally higher caliber legislature.

Why hasn't the one-house legislature caught on so far?

Hugo Sobr, clerk of the Nebraska house since its 1937 inception, blames it chiefly on the fact no legislator wants to legislate himself out of a job.

Nebraska's last bicameral legislature in 1935 had 133 members. Ninety of these positions were abolished as the 43-member single house came into being. Reapportionment two years ago added six members for a present total of 49.

Only eight states have fewer than 100 legislators. New Hampshire counts 424.

Putting legislators out of work may be the practical political objection, but bicameral states have been more wont to brush off the unicameral on grounds it sacrifices some checks and balances inherent in the two-house system.

Benjamin Franklin was poo-pooing such talk as early as 1789, when the issue was a hot one in Pennsylvania.

"If one part of the legislature may control the operations of the other," he wrote, "may not the impulses of passion, the combinations of interest, the intrigues of faction, the haste of folly or the spirit of encroachment in one of those bodies obstruct the good proposed by the other and frustrate its advantages to the public?

"May not the wisdom brought to the legislature by each member be as effectual a barrier against the impulses of passion etc. when the members are united in one body, as when they are divided?"

Nebraskans don't contend their system is perfect. They complain on occasion that the nonpartisan body lacks leadership. They grumble that the legislature entertains and passes too many bills, and that its biennial sessions run too long.

But virtually no one complains that checks and balances have been sacrificed.

Deterrents to hanky-panky are written into the state constitution and legislative rules, or encouraged by custom.

At least five legislative days must elapse between the time a bill is introduced and the time it is finally passed.

Bills are prepared by the legislative bill drafter. A senator introducing a bill is expected to lead the fight for it.

Each bill except routine corrective measures is referred to a standing committee for public hearing at which any citizen may appear and speak. Hearings must be scheduled at least five days in advance.

No bill may be pigeon-holed in committee. The committee must either kill it, or send it to the floor, and there is machinery for prodding lagards.

After receiving committee approval, a bill makes at least three appearances on the floor — first to undergo general debate and amendment, next for technical refinements and unanimous consent amendments and finally for final reading around and a final vote.

Each senator must have had in hand a printed copy of the bill in final form for at least one day before the final vote is taken. He must be seated during final reading and the floor is off limits, even to newsmen, while this is taking place. Each senator's vote is recorded in the journal.

Any single senator may call for a machine vote or a record vote on any proposition before the full body. Votes are flashed electrically for all to see on a voting board at the front of the chamber.

All sessions are open to newsmen except that votes and comments of individual senators at committee executive sessions may not be reported without the senator's permission.

"It's like working in a fish bowl," a senator once complained.

Bills passed go to the governor for approval or veto. A three-fifths vote overrides a veto.

Gov. Frank Morrison says the most effective checks and balances lie in the open committee hearings, the governor's veto power, court review and invalidation of unconstitutional legislation, and the fact a bad bill can be repealed by referendum or be repealed at the next legislative session.

"Any more check than that wouldn't be a check at all, it

Rules on Using Your Dependents As Tax Exemptions Are Detailed

EDITOR'S NOTE — Children are not the only persons taxpayers may claim as a dependent. If your grandfather had less than $600 income and you paid more than half his support, you could claim him. This article, fourth in a series of five, gives the rules on income tax exemptions for dependents.

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — There's no single rule covering exemptions for all dependents. But each one you can rightfully claim means $600 taken off your income in making out your 1964 income tax return.

Anyone filing a return gets a $600 exemption for himself if he is under 65 and an additional $600 if he is over 65. The same goes for his wife. A blind person under or over 65 gets an extra $600 exemption, in addition to his regular one.

A dependent could be your child, parent, or some other relative, or a friend. But you get no extra $600 exemption for a dependent because he is over 65 or blind.

If you contributed more than half his support in that part of the year in which he was alive you can claim as a dependent a child who was born or who died in 1964, but not a stillborn child.

In deciding whether you can claim your own child, stepchild, or an adopted child as a dependent, age 19 is an important point. But, first, remember: Anyone of any age — that goes for a child under or over 19 — who had $600 income of his own must file a return and take his own $600 exemption on that return.

But say you had an under-19 child for whom you contributed more than half the support. It wouldn't matter how much income he had, below or above $600 or none at all, or whether he had to file a return.

You could claim him as a dependent and take a $600 exemption for him, and you wouldn't have to report his income on your return. The point is: He was under 19, your child, and you contributed more than half his support.

But it's different if he was 19 or over and had $600 income, even though you contributed more than half his support.

You couldn't claim him as a dependent unless he qualified as a full-time student. He couldn't qualify as such if he had a regular full time job during the day and went to high school or took correspondence courses.

But if he qualified as a full-time student — no matter how much his income — and if he got more than half his support from you, you could claim a $600 exemption for him.

And even if your dependent child won a scholarship, you could ignore its value in figuring whether you paid more than half his support last year.

While you cannot claim a paid servant in your home as a dependent, you could make that claim for a friend who lived in your home the full year and got more than half his support from you.

But you couldn't claim that friend as a dependent, even though he got more than half his support from you, if he had $600 income.

You could claim anyone of the following list of relatives as a dependent but only if you provided for more than half the support for him or her and that relative did not have as much as $600 gross income:

Your grandchild, great-grandchild, and so on; your legally adopted child or stepchild, but not the latter's descendants; your brother or sister; your parents, grandparents, or other direct ancestors, but not a foster-parent; your stepfather or stepmother; mother; your niece or nephew, meaning a son or daughter of your brother or sister; your father, mother, son, daughter, brother- or sister-in-law.

But, generally, not if they live overseas, unless they are U.S. citizens.

Those relationships do not end with death or divorce. Even though your wife died or divorced you, you can continue to claim her father — your father-in-law — as a dependent if he fits the rule mentioned above.

Nor does a relative have to live with you for you to claim him as a dependent. For example, you may have been paying more than half the support of one of your parents who was living with your sister.

Here's how you couldn't claim a relative as a dependent: Your brother got more than half his support from you but earned $600 or more on his own. He'd have to file his own return, taking his own $600 exemption.

Two questions arise here: What's income in the case of a dependent? And if it isn't taxable, does it count?

Social Security payments are not taxable and do not have to be reported as income by anyone, yet they may be a decisive factor in deciding whether someone you wish to claim as a dependent got more than half his support from you.

Example: Your father got $700 in Social Security payments, and used them to live on. That was the only income he got on his own. You contributed more than $700 to his support. You could claim him as a dependent.

Example: Your father got $700 in Social Security payments but, instead of using them to live on, put them in a bank and lived off the support you gave him. You could claim him as a dependent, even though you gave him less than $700.

But you could not claim him if he lived off the Social Security payments and the support he got from you but your support was less than what he got from Social Security.

Then there's this one: Suppose you paid more than half the support of your married child but he, or she, filed a joint return with his or her spouse.

You couldn't claim an exemption for him. In this case the fact that you paid more than half his support wouldn't count. fact that you paid more than half his support wouldn't count. Next: deductions.

Tropical Fish Fan Is Sued for Divorce

CHICAGO (AP) — A suburban Evanston woman has sued for divorce, contending that her husband used her pots and pans to coddle his tropical fish.

Stephanie Endres, 38, said in the Circuit Court suit that her husband, Donald, 42, spent much of the night caring for the several thousand fish and beat her when any of them died.

The suit alleged that Endres, executive chef at St. Joseph's Hospital, had spent $2,500 on fish tanks and planned to buy another 50-gallon one.

The Endres, married more than five years ago, have a 4-year-old son.

Mrs. Endres also sought an injunction to restrain Endres from buying any more fish.

TV Science-Math Club Plans Fair

The Teays Valley Science-Math Club met Jan. 19, under the direction of Mr. Richard Snider, adviser.

Plans were discussed for the local Science Fair. The group decided to invite the elementary students to participate in the fair.

Mr. Snider announced that the Central Ohio Science Fair will be held March 26 and 27 at Otterbein College, Westerville, and the Central District Fair is to be March 20 in the French Field House on the Ohio State University Campus.

After the business meeting, John Shreve, president, presented Major Clithero, USAF, who showed an interesting film concerning the trajectory of objects in space. Following the film he gave an informative lecture on new ideas pertaining to space.

NSF Offers Training to '65 Seniors

The National Science Foundation will provide opportunities for experience in science and mathematics during the summer of 1965 to senior students of high ability.

There are two kinds of programs: The Secondary Science Training Program and the Cooperative College-School Science Program. The latter is a joint effort involving a host institution of higher learning and a set of secondary schools whereby both students and teachers from high schools concentrate on science offerings designed to enrich the content of the regular high school curriculum.

Programs offer instructions in subjects such as biology, mathematics, or physics. Others, a junior member of a team actively engaged in scientific research under the supervision of a senior scientist. Applications will be considered from both girls and boys. They will avoid duplication of instruction available in the secondary schools.

Selections are based upon scholastic ability, science training and the completion or specified high school courses in science and mathematics.

Programs vary from 5 to 13 weeks. Costs of instruction are paid by the National Science Foundation; the student is expected to pay his own expenses for room, board, and travel. Admission is based on student's qualifications, without regard to financial need.

Interested students can receive more detailed information in the Guidance Office at Westfall High School. Application should be mailed no later than Feb. 20.

Logan Elm Student Gives Views on TV Commercials

By JUDY SHORT

Everyone has come to think of television commercials as a necessary evil that accompanies the nation's favorite pastime, watching the "idiot box."

In fact, the average viewer is subjected to at least one commercial for every 15 minutes of viewing time. The sponsor, in order to sell his product, must gain the viewer's attention during these interruptions of television entertainment. But must he reject all sense to do it?

The average American does not ordinarily see a knight on a white charger galloping down a street changing everything he touches to purest white. Not every American housewife has a real giant bubbling around in her automatic washer. Nor can she pour an insurance policy out of her bottle of liquid detergent. And how many people do you know who would crate up a nosey neighbor and ship her to Siberia for criticizing their laundry? These are just a few examples of the agonizing attention-getters that American viewers must watch.

It is not the commercials I mind. It is the way they are presented. Must the public sit in front of their television sets while sponsors hurl continued insults at their intelligence. The material in television commercials resembles absurd trivia more than humor. Must intelligent beings be bombarded constantly by people like Giant Don, who stands in front of a camera in bermuda shorts and a tee shirt insisting that everyone who can walk, crawl, or run come immediately to buy his furniture? Come now, we are not imbeciles, although we are being treated as such by the businessmen of the "boob-tube" set.

There ought to be some law to protect Americans from the creative minds on Madison Avenue who are causing such destruction of reason, but unfortunately there is none. Every television viewer who has any respect for intelligence should make an effort to let the sponsors know how he feels about such mockery. When bombarded by millions of angry letters, perhaps they will take the hint. Viewers, unite!

Projects To Benefit Banquet at Logan Elm

By SHARON GRAVES

The Junior Class of Logan Elm High School has been working hard to earn enough money to sponsor the Junior-Senior Banquet in May. They have earned the money in various ways — selling concessions and operating the coat check at the home basketball games, as well as selling the game programs.

Two of the best sellers were candy in apothecary jars which netted them over $200 and Kennedy-Lincoln plaques. Dances have also helped to earn money. The class held its last dance, Feb. 5, after the home basketball game with Laurelville.

Plans are being made to hold a Fox Drive Feb. 27, at 9 a.m., and a Talent Show. The class advisers, Mrs. Virginia Court-right, Mr. Owen Duncan, and Mr. Dow West, have given their time in aiding the Juniors in their money earning projects.

NHS Organized At Westfall HS

Among the many organizations taking shape at Westfall High School this year is the National Honor Society.

At the present time it contains only ten members. They are Joyce Davis, Ruth Lewis, Linda Minor, Sue Perkins, John Rodgers, David Schein, JoAnn Seibel, Gary Sharp, Diane Thomas and Cindy Vincent.

Under the supervision of Mr. Howard Weaver, guidance counselor at Westfall, the society has been earning money for activities by selling programs at the home athletic games. In doing this the member gain a knowledge of working with the public as well as accepting a responsibility earned by membership in the organization.

Enthusiasm High For WF Bowling

Approximately 120 students at Westfall High School have shown sincere enthusiasm in their future bowling activities. Planning includes beginners as well as regular bowlers in hopes that students can promote lasting interest in this healthful activity.

The goals students are working toward are the promotion of interest in extra-curricular activities, making friends, and the promotion of physical fitness. Each week the students each contribute 15 cents toward the purchase of trophies and awards to be presented at the end of the season.

The cooperation and enthusiasm of the students has been deeply appreciated and all concerned hope the interest and participation will continue throughout the season.

WF Gets New Faculty Members

By LINDA STUBBS

Mrs. Martha Ewing, who replaces Mrs. Mowery, is the new librarian at Westfall High School.

She is a graduate of Ohio State University and has a Bachelor of Science in Home Economics.

Her hobbies include sewing and music. W.H.S. welcomes her and her services will be greatly appreciated by the students.

The students at Westfall High School also wish to welcome a new teacher, Mr. Dan Whitteman. He replaces Mr. Wade, and teaches American History, Economics, and Sociology. Mr. Whitteman graduated from Capital University with a major in History and Government. His hobbies include sports, reading, and traveling.

Pickaway Grange Report

POMONA

Scioto Grange served as host for the winter meeting of Pomona Grange held Feb. 6 at the Grange and 4-H Building. Of the eight Subordinate Granges Scioto Valley had the most members present.

Following the singing of "Song of Peace", Worthy Master Dorsey Bumgarner conducted the business session during which routine progress and statistical reports were given by subordinate secretaries.

John Dowler, county deputy and Pomona Building treasurer, reviewed recent sharing projects designed to aid community assemblies and payment of the building debt.

Present and future projects in the home economics department were explained by Mrs. John Dowler. She encouraged preparation for cooperation in the county, state, and national sewing and baking contests. Plans are underway to help with the India project which entails sending of material needs. In support of such endeavors pecans, walnuts and mail box name plates are being sold.

The youth chairman, Harold Furniss, requested help and interest for the Drill Team which is in the process of organizing for district competition. After a letter was read from the National Youth Chairman, requesting support for awards, grants, and scholarships, the decision was made to contribute.

Through reinstatement, Mrs. John Wolford of Logan Elm Grange, renewed membership. Patricia Schleich, of Star Grange, a candidate by application, was introduced and after being given the obligations of the order by the Worthy Master, declared a Pomona member.

Resolutions of respect were read and adopted for Mrs. Anna Hedges, recently deceased Pomona Chaplain. Mrs. Homer Reber was elected to fill this vacancy.

April 2, 6:30 p. m. was set for the Annual Pomona All Member Cooperative Banquet and Program.

The supervising committee will be subordinate home economic chairmen, the Pomona home economics committee and the lecturer.

The theme for the program, supervised by the lecturer, Mrs. Leora Sayre, lecturer, was "Devotion and Brotherhood — for and by Individuals, and Organized Affiliations". Paul Dunkle and Mrs. Ralph Dunkel alternated as piano accompanists. The beginning musical number, "The Brotherhood of Man" was by Mr. Dunkle.

For the special feature, personalities, traditions, and events of February were recognized, demonstrated, and narrated. Assistance was provided by Carl Dean Jr., Jill and Lynn Dountz, Mrs. Harry Wright and

Gladys Vause. Group songs were: "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes", and "Sing Your Way Home."

The following vocal numbers were presented by Joyce and Carol DeLong: "Beautiful Dreamer", "Darling Clementine", "Everybody Loves a Lover" and "Dear Hearts and Gentle People".

A dramatic highlight was the demonstrated contest "Disengaging a Lover's Knot". The participants were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dean Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Timmons, Barbara McKenzie, Harold Furness, and John Dowler.

The concluding guidance thoughts were given by Mrs. Ralph Fisher.

In behalf of Scioto Valley Grange, Worthy Master Harold Bumgarner, extended an invitation for the Spring Pomona Meeting, May 1, 8:00 p.m. at Scioto Valley Grange Hall.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, Feb. 11, the 42nd day of 1965. There are 323 days left this year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1812, a word was added to our political vocabulary when Gov. Elbridge Gerry of Massachusetts approved a redistricting bill giving the Jeffersonian Republicans and edge in state senator elections. One new district was shaped like a salamander — hence, to "gerrymander" described the shuffling of districts to give a desired political result.

On this date
In 1734, frontiersman Daniel Boone was born.

In 1861, Abraham Lincoln said farewell to his neighbors in Springfield, Ill.

In 1847, inventor Thomas A. Edison was born.

In 1944, U.S. Navy planes made a massive attack on Eniwetok atoll in the Marshall Islands.

In 1946, the text of the Yalta Agreement was made public, calling for a declaration of war against Japan by Russia.

Ten years ago — President Tito returned to Yugoslavia after a two months visit to Burma, India and Egypt.

Five years ago — The Soviet Union rejected a U.S. proposal at Geneva for a limited ban on nuclear explosions.

One year ago — Delegates to the Organization of African Unity started talks on army mutinies in Tananyika, Uganda and Kenya.

Dayton Man 'Drops Dead,' Is Revived

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — "I dreamed my heart stopped," 52-year-old William O. Varner told the doctor.

The doctor, shocked, replied, "I'm not sure it was a dream." And Varner then learned his heart had stopped.

"He walked in and dropped dead," said Richard Minor, assistant administrator of Good Samaritan Hospital. "The staff brought him back to life."

Varner became ill after work Friday. Fellow employees took him to the hospital.

When he collapsed, an emergency alert was sounded in the hospital. Seven doctors worked on him for 20 minutes, using heart massage and other techniques to restore breathing and a heart beat.

Varner's wife said he doesn't remember all that happened, just that he had chest pains about quitting time and went to the hospital.

Varner was removed from the intensive care section Wednesday a sign he is on the way to recovery.

A doctor said it was fortunate Varner was taken to the hospital. "He would never have made it home that night," he said.

Nicklaus Bids For Second Phoenix Win

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Big hitter Jack Nicklaus had the conditions in his favor today as he opened his bid for a second straight victory in the $67,500 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

Nicklaus and other proponents of the power game were conceded advantage on the damp Arizona Country Club course, a 6,584-yard par-72 desert layout which has been drenched with rain in recent days.

No rain fell Wednesday, but the course had little chance to dry out as the sun spent much of the day behind clouds and temperatures hovered in the 40s.

Despite the slowness of the fairways, soft-spoken Kentuckian Frank Beardon proved in Wednesday's pro-am competition that the power boys won't have the game all to themselves.

Beardon, of Louisville, made finesse count, whittling out a nine-under-par 63 with accurate irons and a deft putter. He had nine birdies and no bogeys.

Beardon didn't get much help from his teammates in the pro-am competition. They contributed only two strokes to his team's best-ball score.

Foursores led by Miller Barber and Bruce Devlin had best-ball counts of 56 to tie for pro-am honors.

Boxer Kicks Ring Foe Repeatedly

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Willie Richardson raced across the ring Wednesday night at Oakland Auditorium and kicked California state heavyweight champion Roger Rischer in the groin before their scheduled 12-round fight for the title.

The 192-pound Richardson was disqualified by referee Vern Bybee, then suspended indefinitely by the State Athletic Commission.

Rischer, 198, of Oakland, was standing in the middle of the ring with Bybee waiting for the referee's instructions. Richardson then rushed at Rischer and kicked him a number of times.

Rischer said he didn't move when he saw Richardson charging because, "I thought it was a gag."

The incident almost turned into a full-scale brawl after Rischer was ordered out of the ring.

Richardson, of nearby San Jose, had been seated by handlers in his corner, but he jumped through the ropes and began throwing punches at Rischer.

The $4,603 gross gate receipts will be refunded to the approximately 2,000 fans on hand, promoter Don Chargin announced. Last Nov. 2 in San Jose Rischer knocked Richardson down twice in the 11th round and was awarded a knockout victory by referee Frank Carte, allowable under California rules.

Jesse Owens Gets Position as Coach

NEW YORK (AP) — Jesse Owens won four Olympic gold medals, made Hitler look like a bum and beat horses in exhibition races. Now, at 51, comes his toughest test — teaching the New York Mets to run fast.

The Mets have sprinted home 10th, 10th and 10th in the first three years of their existence. Not only do they lack early foot but they die in the stretch. They're not so hot down the back side either. Since the 1964 season ended they have added dash man Yogi Berra.

George Weiss, the Mets' president, announced Wednesday that Owens was joining the club as a special running instructor.

North Carolina's 1965 football team will have only one squad leader back. He is Bill Edwards whose 51 punts averaged 38.1 yards last fall.

Penn State Still Romping

Lions Doing Fine On Road Trips

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Nittany Lions of Penn State can put in a strong claim as the best road team in college basketball this season.

They whipped Bucknell at Lewisburg, Pa., 79-61 Wednesday night for their seventh straight victory, a 14-3 record over-all and their eighth triumph in 11 road games.

Jim Reed's 26 points, including nine in a 13-point spree that broke a 23-23 tie, paced the Lions as they added the Bisons to their previous road victims, Kansas, Kansas State, Gettysburg, Temple, Houston Detroit and West Virginia.

The third-ranked St. Joseph's Hawks of Philadelphia the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action, won their 10th straight and upped their over-all record to 20-1 by crushing Albright 92-71 in the feature of a doubleheader at the Palestra.

A basket from 50 feet out by 5-foot-9 Curt Fromal at the half-time buzzer helped LaSalle walk Gettysburg 91-68 in the Palestra opener.

Evansville, the No. 1 team in The AP small-college poll, kept its unbeaten streak going with 103-73 thumping of St. Joseph's, Ind. It was the Aces' 19th straight this year and a winning streak of 25, counting six from last season.

NYU whipped Holy Cross 84-73 and St. Bonaventure, downed Iona 74-64 in a twinbill at New York's Madison Square Garden. Jeff Hazard, with 20 points, and George Carter, with 18, sparked the Bonies.

Ron Reed, 23, and Larry Sheffield, 18, combined for 41 points to lead Notre Dame to a 62-59 triumph over DePaul at South Bend.

Marquette lost its third straight since upsetting St. John's of New York bowing to Memphis State at Milwaukee 82-70.

Allen McCune, who quarterbacked 13 of West Virginia's 19 touchdowns after taking over the signal calling job in mid-season, will be back with the Mountaineers next fall.

Circleville's title hungry Tiger cage team hosts Washington C. H. tomorrow in one of two key basketball games of the South Central Ohio League.

The other key game pits Wilmington, co-league leader, against Miami Trace on the Panther's floor.

A win over the Blue Lions by the Tigers, plus a loss by Wilmington, would boost Circleville into sole possession of the front spot in the league. It also would assure them at least a share of the crown — regardless of the outcome of the final game at Greenfield.

Washington C. H., although currently standing fourth in the league race with a 4-4 record, handed the local quintet its most decisive loss in loop action.

THE 89-73 loss was one of the worst absorbed by the Round-towners this year. Circleville now has an 8-7 overall record and stands 6-2 in SCOL competition.

In the initial meeting between the two teams, 6-4 junior forward Gary Knisely pumped 24 points through the nets as the torrid shooting Blue Lions canned better than 50 per cent of their field goal attempts.

Leading scorer for the Tigers to date is John Thomas who has tallied 274 points. Chet Iery now has a total of 224 markers and John Maxwell 223.

The other game in league action Friday finds Greenfield going against Hillsboro.

On Saturday, Circleville travels to Pleasant View where they will meet the Bo Brickets coached Panthers.

Pleasant View's offense is built around veteran 6-6 center George Fannin. He is one of the leading scorers in the South Suburban League.

THE Pleasant View quintet features a controlled offense and a rugged defense that frequently sees a comparatively low scoring game.

The Panthers have lost only two games this year — to Linden-McKinley and Teays Valley.

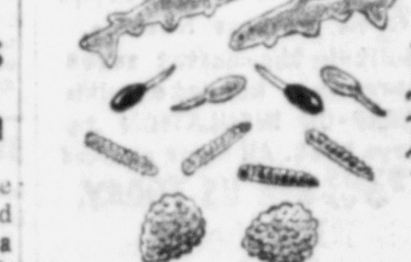

Circleville's title hungry Tiger cage team hosts Washington C. H. tomorrow in one of two key basketball games of the South Central Ohio League.

Hungry Tiger '5' Ready for Lions

Circleville's title hungry Tiger cage team hosts Washington C. H. tomorrow in one of two key basketball games of the South Central Ohio League.

The other key game pits Wilmington, co-league leader, against Miami Trace on the Panther's floor.

A win over the Blue Lions by the Tigers, plus a loss by Wilmington, would boost Circleville into sole possession of the front spot in the league. It also would assure them at least a share of the crown — regardless of the outcome of the final game at Greenfield.

Washington C. H., although currently standing fourth in the league race with a 4-4 record, handed the local quintet its most decisive loss in loop action.

THE 89-73 loss was one of the worst absorbed by the Round-towners this year. Circleville now has an 8-7 overall record and stands 6-2 in SCOL competition.

In the initial meeting between the two teams, 6-4 junior forward Gary Knisely pumped 24 points through the nets as the torrid shooting Blue Lions canned better than 50 per cent of their field goal attempts.

Leading scorer for the Tigers to date is John Thomas who has tallied 274 points. Chet Iery now has a total of 224 markers and John Maxwell 223.

Wall To Defend Title in Panama

PANAMA (AP) — Defending over-all champion Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., and Doug Ford of Tuckahoe, N.Y., led a strong U. S. delegation into today's first round of the Panama Open, first tournament on the annual Caribbean pro golf tour.

Wall captured three tournaments and the Seagram Caribbean trophy on the tour last year. The Panama Open was not played a year ago because of anti-United States demonstrations in the Canal Zone.

Included in the field of 98 professionals and 69 amateurs are players from Canada, France, Spain and the best of the Latin-American players.

OU Tightens Mid-Am Race; Findlay Upset

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio University tightened up the Mid-American Conference basketball race a bit today as Ohio cagers wound up a busy night preparing for the weekend action.

The Bobcats routed Marshall 103-85 to win their eighth conference game against one loss and close the gap behind idle Miami, 9-0.

Four Marshall starters fouled out, leaving the Thundering Herd with a 1-6 conference record.

Ohio goes to Notre Dame Saturday but Miami has a chance to regain its bulge with a game against cellar-dwelling Western Michigan.

Toledo moved solidly into third place with a rousing 97-80 win over Western Michigan Wednesday night.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Rockets since coach Eddie Melvin announced he was resigning.

In other Mid-American action, Kent State moved up the ladder past Bowling Green by defeating the Falcons 77-67. Kent is now 3-5 and Bowling Green 3-6.

Central State, the state's only unbeaten college team and ranked No. 2 in The Associated Press small college poll, continued its winning ways with a 89-71 victory over Villa Madonna of Kentucky. The win was No. 18 for the unbeaten Marauders.

At Bluffton, the Beavers surprised Findlay, 17-4 for the year, and won it 75 - 73. The game was close all the way with the lead changing hands 15 times in the second half.

In Ohio Conference play, Muskingum beat Marietta 78-70 after three Marietta players fouled out.

Eastern Michigan also won in a thriller, 77-75 over Case Tech. Michigan's Al Portratz tossed in two foul shots with one second left to make the difference.

In another squeaker, Ohio Northern dropped Ashland 51-50. Wilmington's Quakers turned back Defiance 70-64 in a Mid-Ohio league contest and thus averted the conference basement.

Elsewhere, Carnegie Tech defeated Western Reserve 73-63 in President's Athletic Conference competition. Vincennes of Indiana beat Wilberforce 79-70 and Rio Grande buried Cincinnati Bible 111-77.

17 Redlegs in Fold For 1965 Season

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds now have 17 players under contract for the 1965 season. Among those returning their signed contracts Wednesday was right-handed pitcher John Tsitouris, who had a 9-13 record and an earned run average of 3.80 last season.

AFL Joins NFL in Ban On Premature Signings

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Football League has followed the rival National League by banning premature signings, but neither pro league has agreed to two other proposals aimed at protecting the nation's colleges in the multimillion-dollar war over top player talent.

Joe Foss, commissioner of the AFL, issued his statement on premature signings Wednesday in a document that almost paralleled one issued by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle last month.

Both leagues are now on record as prohibiting the signing of college football seniors until the teams have completed their seasons, including bowl games.

That, however with a few small exceptions, is as far as the pro leagues have gone in responding to three requests made by the National Collegiate Athletic Association after it was revealed that four Oklahoma players had signed pro contracts before the Gator Bowl game.

The NCAA, at the time, also requested that the pro leagues hold their drafts after the bowl games and discontinue their practice of signing redshirts — players who remain eligible for college competition after their class has graduated.

The AFL, however, took a further step toward trying to reach settlement with the NCAA by stating that it would be league policy initially to seek assistance of the athletic director or the head coach at the college where a club desires to contact a player about signing a pro contract.

The AFL action came just before the deadline set by Jim Corbett, Louisiana State University athletic director and chairman of the NCAA committee on college-pro relations. Corbett said he was withholding comment until he studied the statements.

Despite the fact that the AFL agreed to only one of the three proposals advanced by the NCAA, they jumped back into the good graces of the South-eastern Conference publicity directors.

The conference's sports directors had voted in January to ban AFL representatives from their campuses since the league had not agreed to halt premature signings. With the AFL's announcement, the ban was lifted.

32 Indians Sign Contracts for 1965

CLEVELAND (AP) — Outfielder's Al Luplow's signed 1965 contract was among the latest batch returned to General Manager Gabe Paul, and the Cleveland Indians now have 32 players under contract. Others to return signed contracts include outfielders Paul Dicken and Dick Scheinblum and pitchers Lee Stange and Jim Rittwage.

Southern Illinois is 12-4. The Salukis dropped an 81-80 decision to Evansville on the Aces' home court three weeks ago and a return match is scheduled at Carbondale on Feb. 27.

Bills to Affect Outdoor Ohio

By KEN MCCREARY
FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some indoor activity may have powerful effects on outdoor Ohio.

In the Ohio Statehouse, lawmakers of the 106th General Assembly are digging into the business of legislation that will affect all Ohioans. Over 200 measures have already been introduced and before the final gavel falls upwards of 1,400 proposals may have been tossed in the legislative hoppers.

Many of these bills will deal with outdoor recreation, conservation or natural resources and will affect Ohioans who enjoy the outdoors.

Here's a "highlight roundup" on those in the works or being considered.

Two bills introduced in the Senate deal with the outdoors, and both are apt to trigger hot and prolonged debate.

One, by Ed Sargus of Belmont County, would impose stern new restrictions on strip mining in Ohio. There are strong indications that this is only the first of several measures to tighten strip mining laws governing reclamation practices and pollution control procedures.

The other Senate bill would permit waterfowl hunting on all days and times legal under federal law; in other words, it would legalize Sunday hunting. Ohio waterfowl hunters now are penalized several days of hunting allowed under federal regulation by the exclusion of Sundays from the Ohio season.

This proposal also will encounter determined opposition.

In the House of Representatives, several outdoor-oriented measures have been introduced. These include bills to:

Provide tax exemptions for industrial firms building water pollution control facilities.

Authorize owners of land adjacent to state-owned lakes to build dock facilities.

Prohibit use of gill nets for commercial fishing in Lake Erie.

Create an air pollution control board.

Ask Congress to change the boundary between Ohio and West Virginia and Kentucky. The border now is the Ohio shore of the Ohio River.

A pair of bills would affect summertime outdoor relaxation. An extra hour of daylight would be provided by a House joint resolution to establish statewide Daylight Saving Time from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday of September. In direct opposition is a House bill which would make Eastern Standard Time mandatory in all political subdivisions, thus barring any switches to daylight time.

Looking to the future, a number of proposals slated for future introduction will have wide ranging effects on conservation, recreation, and natural resources. The more important measures would:

Place quail hunting on a regular closed season basis without registration by landowners.

Strengthen laws for arrest and seizure of under-sized fish. Wildlife officials say many less-than-legal sized fish, caught in Lake Erie, are shipped to Ohio from Canada.

Greatly stiffen the penalties for deer poaching to include a fine of $100 to $500 and-or up to 30 days in jail.

Make tougher penalties for impersonating a state game protector.

Create a division of gas and oil in the Natural Resources Department to control booming drilling operations in the state, which have raised some pollution questions.

Allocate royalties from gas drilling in Lake Erie to various conservation funds. Although Canada has 200 gas wells in the lake, Ohio so far has none.

Prohibit the transportation of loaded guns in autos.

Authorize commercial propagation and sale of frogs. (This is now illegal.) In addition to these "probable" bills, there are several which are still question marks for possible introduction. These include:

A bill to place the mourning dove on the game bird list and make it legal game, as it is in other states. In spite of a quiet "education" campaign by the Wildlife Division, this proposal would face heated opposition from several directions.

A measure to make the small-mouth bass the "official" fish of Ohio.

Add up all these proposals, both in the hopper and expected, and it becomes easy to see why the outdoor scene is expected to play a big role in the legislature.

Organized groups will present pinions on some of these suggested laws. Individuals wanting to express an opinion or get more information on any bill may drop a line to the legislators from their areas, in care of the Ohio Statehouse in Columbus.

Car, Truck Assn. Backs Airport Plan

The local New Car and Truck Dealers Assn. voted this week to endorse efforts proposing construction of a new airport for Circleville.

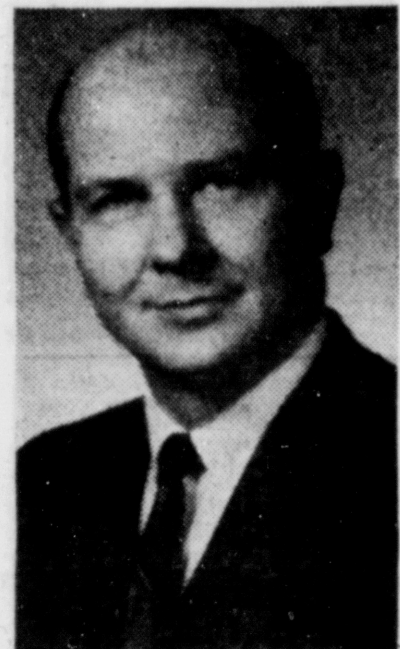

Considerable thought has been directed toward creation of such a facility here during the past few months. The objective is to update Pickaway County in the field of aviation.

One of the chief exponents of the project has been the Circleville Flying Assn., an organization composed of local aviation enthusiasts. The program also is under close study by the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce Airport and Area Development Committees.

Additional items on the dealer association's agenda included receipt of a "thank you" from the Pickaway County Cancer Society unit. Appreciation was extended to the dealers for their efforts in providing transportation for cancer patients to University Hospital in Columbus.

Association members Ned Harden, Jack Clifton, Bud Christopher and Kenny Hannan reported on their trip to Las Vegas where they attended the Auto Dealers National Convention.

Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The high cost of potatoes, a staple on many a homemaker's menu, showed signs of breaking this week.

Traders in potatoes for future delivery pushed prices down steeply. Lagging retail sales at present price levels was given as the main reason for the decline.

It was the fall crop that was cut sharply by bad weather. The winter crop is expected to be about the same as last year.

Vegetables as a whole, however, are somewhat more abundant this winter. Spinach, onions and tomatoes are reported in unusually good supply in many sections of the nation.

Reports from the wholesale markets indicate that beef may carry higher prices in the next few weeks. Pork supplies are also reported to be smaller.

Eggs are still a big bargain. And the hens that lay them are moving to market faster, too, forcing down the price of stewing chickens.

At the meat counters, beef steaks and hams appear among the best buys, although meat prices in general are holding firm.
